VOTE FOR COADJUTOR.

The Episcopal Diocese of Quincy
So Determines.

THE BALLOTING IS PROCEEDING.

Bishop's Request at Last Upheld--The Candidates.

Peoria, Ill., May 16.—The Episcopal convention of the diocese of Quincy devoted itself today to balloting on a candidate for coadjutor-bishop, pursuant to the action of the convention yesterday responsive to the bishop's desire.

The salary of coadjutor-bishop was fixed at $2,000 per annum.
The voting for the selection of a bishop developed candidates as follows: Rev. Dr. S. W. Leffingwell, of

BISHOP BURGESS.

Knoxville, favored by the bishop;
Rev. J. H. Hopkins, Chicago; Rev. J.
M. Davidson, Chicago; Arch Deacon Percy Webber, Rev. F. W. Taylor, Springfield.

Clergy and Laity Differ.

The first ballot showed the clergy to be nine to five for Dr. Leffingwell, while the laity was arrayed against the Knoxville clergyman and scattered as to preferences. The second ballot likewise resulted in no choice.

The following letter from Bishop Burgess was presented to the convention yesterday afternoon immediately after it was called to order by Rev.
Charles Leffingwell, president of the meeting.

Dear Brethren of the Clergy and Laity: The restraining hand of our Lord has held me without suffering or discomfort from my accustomed activity and labors as bishop. Even today as you recognize, I cannot be present with you at the gathering of the church in my diocese. I was permitted last October to visit four of our congregations, St. Mary's, Knoxville; Grace, Galesburg; the Church of the Good Shepherd, Quincy, and the Cathedral of St. John, to join with them in divine service, and to speak the word of God to them. Since that time I have had less strength than before, and the feebleness of age has bound me from further visitation.
It is of the Lord, and He may show that I am to have no regret even on your account. I have remained with my children at St. Albans, Vt., and have only for a few times been able to attend church. At the annual visitation of the bishop of Vermont, with his permission, I had the pleasure of laying hands of confirmation upon one of my grandchildren, Alexander Neahus Burgess. At various times during the year the rite of confirmation has been ministered in the diocese. My thanks are joined with yours for the kind service of my brothers of the episcopate. I will prepare an account of churches in which they officiated and of the numbers confirmed in each. Thursday before Easter our beloved brother, the bishop of Springfield, at my request, ordained to the deaconate Alexander Bruner. He takes charge of Immanuel mission and church at Woodbury. I have confidence that you will go on at this session and make choice of a coadjutor bishop. I have the fullest confidence that the same Lord, who knoweth the hearts of all men, and who added Matthias to the eleven apostles, will show by your ballots whom He will choose and will send forward my beloved diocese to greater activity and devotion than it has had in its life of 22 years. Let us pray our Lord for such things as He sees we lack, and as shall be of permanent blessing to His cause.
With love, your bishop, ALEXANDER BURGESS.
St. Albans, Vt., May 12, 1900.

Lines Sharply Drawn.

How sharply drawn are the lines between the two opposing factions in the diocese was shown by the warmth and earnestness of the discussion which followed the reading of the bishop's letter. While the discussion was amicable and conducted with the moderation which might be expected from a spirit of christian brotherhood, it was evident that both sides felt the issue at stake to be a serious one. For three hours the discussion lasted, and at the end of that time the opposition played its trump card by making a motion to refer the matter to a committee of seven, consisting of four deans and three laymen. The faction favoring the appointment of a coadjutor-bishop saw the trick at once.
In fact it had been tried before and successfully, when four years ago the same proposition had been referred to such a committee and promptly quashed, the four deans being solidly against the appointment of any bishop whatever. The referring of the affair to a committee of seven meant that it would meet a similar fate. Accordingly the move was met at once by a counter motion to the effect that the convention should consider the question in a body. Another long and weary struggle ensued which resulted in a victory for the bishop following, the convention finally voting to meet at 10 o'clock this morning for the purpose of deciding the matter in open session.

DR. OLSSON LAID AT REST.

Services at College and Church--Funeral of J. E. Baker.

The funeral of the late Dr. O. Olsson took place at 1 o'clock this afternoon from Augustana college chapel, and at 3 o'clock from the Swedish Lutheran church in Moline. The body lay in state at the house last evening and in Cable hall this morning from 9 to 12.
The casket was not opened either at the church or chapel services. The services at the chapel were conducted by Dr. E. Norelius, of Vasa, Minn., president of the Augustana synod, and Rev. Julius Lincoln, of Jamestown, N. Y. The services in the church were conducted by Rev. S.
P. A. Lindahl and Rev. C. A. Hemborg, who read a biography of Dr. palbearers, all members of the Augustana faculty. The following were the gustana faculty: Rev. C. O. Graner, C. W. Foss, A. O. Bersell, C. E. Esbjorn, J. A. Udden, A. W. Williamson.
Interment was made at Riverside cemetery.

The remains of John E. Baker, the Milwaukee conductor, arrived from Freeport at 11:30 today over the C. M. & St. P. road. They were accompanied by the wife and son, Rufus and wife, and a committee from the Order of Railway Conductors 106 of Rock Island. Services were conducted at the home in Freeport this morning at 7 o'clock by Rev.
Axtell, of the Methodist church. The funeral occurred from the depot on Twentieth street to Chippannock cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest. Many floral tributes covered the bier. Among them was one from the Milwaukee employes at Freeport, the design standing four feet high. A bunch of flowers was handed to the mourners by a little miss at Port Byron junction, who was accustomed to ride to Rock Island with the deceased. The palbearers, all of the order of Railway Conductors, were: M. F. Archer, J. D. Diatell, A. T. Rohwedder, J. A. Stafford, O. J. Brien and L. A. Mapes.

After a Battle.

In the first aid that is rendered on the field after a battle nothing is attempted beyond the arrest of hemorrhage, the application of temporary splints for fractures and antiseptic dressing. There is no washing or exploration of wounds. The clothes are merely slit up with scissors, not removed, thus insuring protection to the patient's body and saving unnecessary disturbances. The sergeant in charge of the collection station has a field companion, a water bottle and a small reserve of bandages and first dressings in his care to replenish the surgical haversacks with which the bearers are supplied.

Triangular bandages are chiefly used on the battlefield, made from a 28 inch square of linen or calico, cut diagonally into halves. Almost anything that comes to hand may be used as improvised splints—sticks, telegraph wire, bark of trees, straw, rifles, bayonets, lanes and so on. The splint, if necessary, is padded with straw or leaves or grass and is fastened with straps torn from the soldier's equipment or with strips of a shirt, securely bound with the triangular bandage. Bound up with the rifle splint, a wounded man is made so secure that he can hardly move a muscle. One leg is firmly bound to the rifle, and the ankles are tied together, so that the injured limb is almost as rigid as the rifle at its side.—London Standard.

A Cheerful Liar.

"I have followed trout streams ever since I was a boy," said a Providence crank, "and have tried to solve for many years the cause of the apparent decrease in brook trout. Recently I think I discovered the cause of the extermination. I was fishing along a brook near Oakland Beach, R. I., when I saw a large snake with a half masticated trout in its mouth. The action of the snake interested me, and, standing quiet, I studied the snake closely.
"On the end of the snake's tail was a sharp bony growth shaped like a hook.
After a few moments my watching was rewarded by seeing the snake glide over to some bushes growing along the bank and catch a grasshopper in its mouth. The snake then placed the grasshopper carefully on the hooklike thing on the end of its tail.

"By this time my curiosity was thoroughly aroused," continued the fisherman. "The snake crawled up on a log that extended from the bank into the water and let its tail hang into the brook. In a moment up came a trout and snapped at the grasshopper. It was short work for the snake to transfer the fish from its tail to its mouth, and I had solved the problem of the extermination of brook trout."—Cleve-

CAMP IN BRIGADES.

Change in Annual Outing of the Illinois National Guard.

INNOVATION IN MILITARY PRACTICE

Willbur Rutledge Elected Head of Local Division of Naval Reserves.

It has been definitely determined that the encampment of the Illinois National Guard this year shall be by brigades. This is an innovation in the state military practices. Heretofore each regiment has spent a week at Camp Lincoln.

The change has been decided upon for a twofold purpose. The expense to the state will be materially lessened by shortening the length of camp, and the officers and men will be given experience in military strategy and maneuvers that have been impracticable in regimental encampments.

The change has been suggested in the past, but it was found necessary to obviate several difficulties before Camp Lincoln could accommodate three regiments at one time. It is believed, however, that no inconvenience will be experienced in the approaching encampment and that the militia will reach a degree of proficiency exceeding anything in the past.

The 1st brigade, comprised of the Chicago regiments, will be the first to enter camp. The date will be fixed by the commanding general and will likely be the week following the Fourth of July.

Rutledge Elected Lieutenant.

Willbur L. Rutledge was last night elected senior lieutenant of the 2d division, 2d ship's crew, Illinois naval militia, succeeding Lieut. George E.
Fubbs, resigned. Mr. Rutledge received the unanimous vote of the division of which he has been a member since its organization. The other commissioned officers of the division are Junior Lieut. S. W. Bowby and Ensigns Fred L. Tubbs and Joseph C.
Frey.

which she returns this evening.

The wind blowing from the north brought something like the sound of two different Diamond Jo whistles today. One this morning was similar to that of the Quincy, the flagship of the fleet that used to run on the upper Mississippi, and the other this afternoon was very like the old Pittsburg, afterwards known as the Dubuque. By means of a field glass the packets were at different times made out as indicated lying at the Davenport levee. Megaphone messages later brought the gratifying intelligence that all were well on board.

Dubuque is congratulating itself that the government has at last acceded to the request of the city for the site at Eagle Point. Maj. Townsend, of this city, has written a letter to the bridge company stating that the site described can be used with the consent of the government. The company will proceed at once to let the contracts and begin work just as soon as they possibly can. Most of the money for the building of the much needed structure is in sight and the rest will be before it is finished, although the work will be pushed as rapidly as possible.
